5. Warehouse/Office Access and Facilities

Service animals are permitted to enter Book Depot as companions to customers with disabilities.

In many cases, given the type of animal and/or the animal’s identifying markings (e.g. a harness), it will be readily apparent that the animal is a service animal and the animal shall be permitted to enter the warehouse and/or office without question.

In certain cases, it may not be easy to identify an animal entering the warehouse and/or office as a service animal. In such cases, for health and safety purposed, Book Depot Management may ask the customer to confirm that the animal is a service animal. Book Depot Management may deny the admission of the animal into the warehouse and/or office until such a time as the customer can produce a tag or card or other document from a public health authority or medical practitioner confirming that the animal is a service animal. If the customer provides a document, it must be on official letterhead from the issuing health authority or medical practitioner and it must contain a telephone number. If Book Depot Management questions the validity of a document provided by the customer, the customer should be granted temporary access and a copy of the document should be made so that the authenticity of it can be immediately determined by calling the telephone number on the document. If the document’s authenticity cannot be verified, the customer should be informed and asked to remove the animal from the warehouse and/or office.

Support persons are welcome to accompany and provide assistance to customers with disabilities in the Book Depot warehouse and/or office.
